

Some appeared to be more interested in the food than the yarns. Jan Macpherson (left) with Attorney-General Daryl Manzie.

Zoe Marchant (left) with Sir Zelman Cowan who was in Darwin to make the official address at the Northern Territory University Graduation.

Tom Pauling QC rip, rip, ripping. He was telling of what he and his colleagues got up to in the past. Mentioned was a certain gunshot fired in the Alice Springs Courthouse.

Was this the one about the Turkish diplomat, Mustapha, in Moscow? Or was this the series about Stirky? It could have been the one about Mal Meninga's literary eloquence in a certain State of Origin match. Whatever it was, Ray Rinaudo was ripping it...

Ansett Australia.

Bar Conferences during an adjournment.

The defendant, Frank Brewer, played by Darwin High's Ken Watkins. The somewhat biased Alice Springs jury found him guilty of obtaining $1000 by Deception. Notwithstanding the verdict, His Honour the Administrator declared Darwin High the winners and the trophy returns to Darwin from Alice Springs.

The second prosecuting witness, Tina Whitlock, played by Centralian College's Jane Kilgariff.

The defence team. Left to right: John Pavlov, Rebecca Monckton and Jo-Ann Tomlinson.

The Grand Final of the 1993 Ansett Inter-School Mock Trial competition was decided in Alice Springs late last month. His Honour the Administrator presided, and Darwin won the trophy back from Alice Springs. Ansett provided the airfares for the students and the Bookshelf provided a legal dictionary for each student. Pix courtesy of the Centralian Advocate.