Law Week - a family focus

• From Page 1

Your Society is hopeful of securing a short-term shop lease in the city centre for the week, which will be used as a base for the public to view half-hour Family Legal Check-Up videos and take relevant brochures. Both the video, on the most popular questions on family and other law, and the brochures are being supplied to each state and territory by NSW as part of the national family theme.

It is expected that the shop will be manned from 11 am to 2pm daily and, once again, volunteer practitioners are required.

A large banner will be displayed in Smith Street Mall to promote Law Week and additional publicity is now being arranged.

Law Week is an invaluable method of bringing together the law and the community. Its success depends vitally upon your contribution as practitioners and members of The Law Society.

If you can donate time to Law Week activities phone the Society on 81 5104.

NOTICE

Apology to Ian Gray

The Law Society wishes to advise that it has received a letter from the Law Council of Australia addressed to the members concerning erroneous material published in the December edition of the Criminal Law Section Newsletter. The Law Council of Australia and Mr Geoff Barbaro have acknowledged that all of the defamatory comments concerning our Chief Magistrate, Mr Ian Gray, are incorrect and they unreservedly apologise to him. The Law Council recognises Mr Gray's record in supporting legal rights and liberties and notes that he was previously a member of the Victorian Council for Civil Liberties.
