

Oakland's Wine Collection at Members Prices

In February the range of Grant Burge wines was released in Darwin and this month we offer the range to members at a special release price.

Grant Burge released the Oakland Range onto the Australian market in 1992. The Oakland releases are blended wines combining the best qualities of some of the finest grape varieties grown in South Australia.

1995 Oakland White

A blend of Semillon Sauvignon Blanc and Colombard, excellent in structure, full of flavour and ready for drinking for all occasions

1994 Oakland Red

A blend of Cabernet Sauvignon, Mourvedre, and Granache, complex and fruit filled, a wine to drink now.

Both RRP $11.95.
Members' price $9.95

1995 Grant Burge Riesling

A pronounced spicy Riesling character on the bouquet. The palate is full of flavour.

1995 Grant Burge Semillon

A wine of full flavour and complexity, hand picked from 60 year old vines.

Both RRP $13.95.
Members' price $11.95

1995 Sauvignon Blanc

A fuller style Sauvignon Blanc.

RRP $15.55.
Members' price $12.95

1995 Chardonnay

The Barossa Ranges are higher in altitude and cooler in climate, producing a Chardonnay which is finer and more elegant in style.

RRP $19.95.
Members' price $15.95

1993 Shiraz

This wine has an excellent purple colour and a very good peppery bouquet.

1993 Cabernet Sauvignon

Cabernet Sauvignon is generally regarded as the most "noble" of red grape varieties. Grant Burge has won many trophies for his Cabernet Sauvignons. This is an excellent example.

Both RRP $19.95.
Members' price $15.95

1992 Meshach

The finest Shiraz from 70 year old vines has been selected for Grant Burge's flagship. A fine, very full bodied wine, to enjoy now or hold.

RRP $48.
Members' price $40.

An Accessible Law Week for 1996

Following a meeting at the Law Society, plans for Law Week 1996 (to be held 13 - 18 May) indicate that this year's activities will deliver an informative and interesting package to the public. In addition, it is hoped that this Law Week will give local practices the opportunity to promote the profession better than ever before.

The theme for Law Week 1996 will be "Access to Justice", a concept which is sufficiently broad so as to include all areas of the profession and to offer plenty of appeal to the general public.

As ever, the success of Law Week depends on the participation of all areas of the legal fraternity and it is to be hoped that members will be supportive of their Law Society in this endeavour.

Law Line, despite its popularity with the public, will not be run in 1996 as the service it has provided in the past is now available through the Northern Territory Legal Aid Commission's 1800 telephone line and the Darwin Community Legal Service's advice sessions. Instead, local radio stations will be asked to offer small segments where practitioners may be interviewed on air or even take a daily ride on Hot 100's Black Thunder!

It is hoped that the Law Walks, which were well patronised in the past, will be offered again in 1996 and the public libraries have been asked to act as a venue for public viewing of law-related videos.

New in this year's line-up is the intended "Breakfast in the Mall", where it is planned to launch Law Week. Practitioners may find themselves approached to take part in some unusual activities in relation to this in an attempt to show the human face of the law to the public!

Plans are underway for a mediation demonstration session and a Red Cross breakfast seminar.

The week's activities will culminate in the annual Law Week luncheon, and the Law Society is working towards offering something special this year, including Richard Ackland, current columnist in the Financial Review and the Justinian as speaker.

Sponsors in 1996 include the NT Law Society Public Purpose Trust, Qantas and Sedgewick Ltd.
