Technology For Justice

The AIJA Technology for Justice Conference is set to take place in Melbourne from 23-25 March 1998.

The aim of the conference is to promote the most effective use of information technology in support of both criminal investigations and criminal and civil litigation.

The Conference is directed to a wide range of stakeholders in the justice process and will be of particular importance to decision makers concerned with new technology developments as well as the use of existing systems.

Sessions will address the potential to use common systems, the developments of standards and common interfaces and the benefits which can be achieved by the use of technology.

A trade show will run for the duration of the conference and will cover all relevant aspects of computing and telecommunications. The show will include video technology, imaging, court systems, integrated systems, scanning bureau services, transcript services and tailored hardware and software offerings.

Forms to register expressions of interest in the conference are available from the Law Society.
