

Family Law News

8TH NATIONAL FAMILY LAW CONFERENCE HOBART, 24 - 28 OCTOBER 1998

Tasmania and the 8th National Family Law Conference should be the perfect combination.

The conference, held biennially, has become the largest and most successful legal conference in Australia, regarded as a must by hundreds of lawyers who practice in the family law area.

Organisers recognise that Tasmania will be an attractive holiday opportunity for many registrants and their families and so the conference has been arranged to commence on Saturday evening and finish on Wednesday morning, leaving the balance of the week for registrants to explore Tasmania.

If time away from the office is in short supply, you can still enjoy the whole conference and a taste of Tasmania, and be back at work on Thursday morning.

The conference has a reputation for providing practical help for busy practitioners who value the quality of their advice and reputation. This year, organisers are placing special emphasis on engaging speakers who are able to give practical help and advice to registrants. Some sessions will be conducted in a workshop format.

The conference is sure to be a huge success and early registration is recommended. For details, contact:

Mures Convention Management
Victoria Dock, Hobart 7000
Telephone: 03 6234 1424
Facsimile: 03 6234 4464
e-mail: conventions@mures.com.au

*The next meeting of the Family Law Group will be on Tuesday 27
April at 1pm at the Law Society.*

Bungy Code Stretches Safety To the Max

Australian and New Zealand standards experts have catapulted safety issues of bungy jumping into the limelight by proposing a new Code of Practice, advises Standards Australia.

The review has been released for public comment until 30 April and is a revision of the previous Code, which had existed since 1992, following three bungy jumping accidents in Australia.

The Code covers catapult, static, helicopter and mobile jumping facilities and applies to all bungy jumping operations for development, demonstration, private or public use.

Copies of the proposed revised Code may be obtained from Standards Australia in all state capitals.

CLE - Local Court/ Small Claims -Video available

The recent CLE presentation by Vivien Holmes and Tanya Fong Lim on the new rules for Local Court and Small Claims Court was video-taped and is available for Darwin practitioners at the Law Society. The is a $10 per week hire charge.

A further copy has been forwarded to the library at the Law Courts Building in Alice Springs for use by practitioners in that centre.

F A C U L T Y O F L A W

Master of Laws in Comparative Law

With a Southeast Asian Focus

OFFERED EXTERNALLY. ENROL AND COMMENCE STUDY AT ANY TIME OF THE YEAR!!

You can enrol now in the Master of Laws in Comparative Law (studied externally) and not sit the examination until November 1999 or November 2000.

Study at home in Australia or overseas - we give you detailed subject notes, case notes and readings, written and/or reviewed by internationally renowned scholars.

You can determine your own study programme - you may enrol in additional subjects at any time, and enrolment in each subject is valid for up to two academic years.

You can choose from a wide range of subjects, including Major Legal Systems, International Trade Law, International Environmental Law, Comparative Intellectual Property Law, Comparative Constitutional Law, Indonesian Law, Malaysian Business Law and Islamic Law in South East Asia.

Alternatively, you can enrol in individual subjects with an option of transferring to the LLM program at a later date.

There is no closing date for enrolment in this Master of Laws program - you may enrol at any time.

For more information contact: Centre for Southeast Asian Law, Faculty of Law, Northern Territory University, Darwin NT 0909, Australia
Ph: (08) 8946 6943 Fax: (08) 8946 6933
Email: cseal@law.ntu.edu.au
Homepage: <http://www.ntu.edu.au/faculties/law/cseal>
Uni Info Shop: 1800 061 963 (Free Call)
Email: info-shop@ntu.edu.au

NTU. THE UNIVERSITY IN THE RIGHT PLACE AT THE RIGHT TIME