

Risk Management Seminar

Marsh Pty Ltd (formerly Sedgwick) will be running the annual risk management seminar in both Darwin and Alice Springs in November. The risk management seminars have been well received in the past and we urge all practitioners to consider attending again this year. The seminars are an important aspect of the Professional Indemnity insurance programme, and high attendance demonstrates to insurers the importance that practitioners are giving to reduce the claims experience in the Northern Territory. This ultimately assists in maintaining the competitive premiums we enjoy in our territory.

The seminar this year will focus on some actual case scenarios to determine specific causes of claims as experienced in the Northern Territory. We will assist in the development of strategies that will reduce the claim potential that can have an adverse effect on you and your practice. Case scenarios will be developed for different practice types, ensuring that all attendees gain from discussion and development of specific and relevant strategies for their own practices.

At this year's seminar Marsh will be introducing Mr Alan Champness, who has a strong background in risk consulting, strategic risk management, contingency planning and risk storm processes. Along with Cheryl Richardson, Alan will facilitate the interactive sessions this year using his specific expertise.

The cost of the sessions will be $25 per attendee with a $75 rebate available from next year's insurance premium per practitioner attending.

Further details and registration forms will be forwarded to all firms over the next two weeks, however for your diary, please note the following session times:

Darwin            Wednesday 17th November 9.00am to 12.30pm and 2.00pm to 5.30pm
                     Thursday 18th November 9.00am to 12.30pm
Alice Springs    Friday 19th November 9.00am to 12.30pm
