

A section of the Supreme Court Library has been dedicated to the memory of Jane Mahoney, a former Darwin lawyer.

Jane and her husband, Tony, died tragically on 12 July 1998 when they were struck by a vehicle while they stopped on the Cox Peninsula Road to change a tyre on their vehicle.

Jane was a well respected lawyer and a good friend to many. She is sadly missed. On 26 November, 1999, in celebration of Jane's life, the Northern Territory Women Lawyers Association, with the support and assistance of Jane's family, the Supreme Court Library Committee and the Law Society, opened a special collection in the Supreme Court Library. Melanie Little, President of the NTWLA, welcomed the Chief Justice, the Chief Magistrate and members of the judiciary and legal profession to the dedication ceremony.

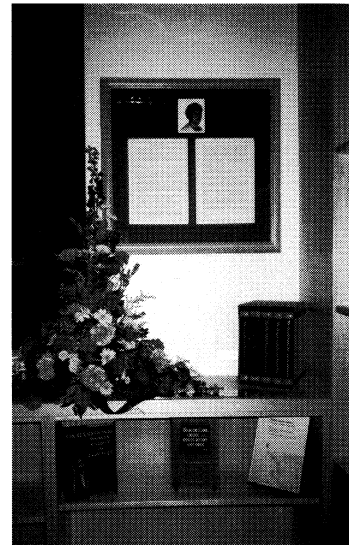

The dedication, written by Donna Dreier, was read by Sally Gearin, after which, friends and colleagues shared their memories of Jane.

The collection contains the following books:

International Human Rights in Context - Law, Politics and Morals; Henry J Steiner and Philip Alton. (OUP, 1996)
Health Care Crime and Regulatory Control edited by Russell G Smith. (Hawkins Press, 1996)

Public Sector Ethics - Funding and Implementing Values edited by Charles Sampford and Noel Preston. Routledge Studies in Governance and Social Policy. (Federation Press, 1998)

A Century of Conflict 1848 - 1948 edited by AJP Taylor. (Folio Society, 5v)
Notable Historic Trials (Folio Society, 4v)

The home of the Supreme Court Library collection dedicated to the memory of Jane Mahoney.

The NTWLA will contribute to the collection each year on the anniversary of Jane's death.

Jane was a great reader. The NTWLA considers this to be an appropriate way to remember her contribution to life and the law.

By Barbara Tiffin

Supreme Court librarian Frieda Evans and President of the Women Lawyers Melanie Little.

Year 2000 Almanac

Practitioners will no longer be able to purchase the Year 2000 Almanac in hard form.

From Monday 10 January 2000 the Almanac will be available on the internet on OCA home page: <http://www.nt.gov.au/oca>.

For those without access to the internet, copies will be available on diskette at a cost of $10.00 each.

Jenni Daniel-Yee and Sarah Lunn.