Australian Law Reform Commission

The Honourable Justice Mark Weinberg has been reappointed as a part-time member of the Australian Law Reform Commission.

Administrative Review Council

Associate Professor Robin Creyke and Mr Stephen Gageler have been reappointed as part-time members of the Administrative Review Council.

Change of duties at the DPP

From the beginning of February John Adams will take over the duties of allocating files to prosecutors in the Magistrates Court and the Supreme Court. Jenny Blokland will continue in her role as General Counsel to the DPP but will now be free to appear in court more often.

Mr Adams will continue to appear in court but will also attend to arraignment day and associated duties.

Julie McLachlan will become the arraignment clerk and will work with Mr Adams in this regard. If he is unavailable Ms McLachlan is the person to be contacted in the Office.

Ms Blokland will continue her role in administering Court of Criminal Appeal and High Court matters within the office.

From February onwards, practitioners and court officer with queries on prosecution files and call-overs should direct them to Mr Adams.

Prisoners' civil and political rights

During 2000 the Human Rights and Equal Opportunity Commission, jointly with the Australian Human Rights Centre at the University of NSW, will promote research, analysis and debate on prisoners' rights in Australia.

In particular, the research will focus on the issue of voting rights to investigate public attitudes and prisoners' status. Details of the work will be published later in the new year. Preliminary comments are welcome and should be sent to:
