

PEOPLE AND THE LAW

George Andrews is a sole practitioner in Darwin.

Background: Born in South Africa. Studied at Trinity College and Kings Inn, Dublin. Admitted to the Irish Bar in 1968, Victoria in 1979, New South Wales in 1983 and the NT in 1984.

Who are your role models? Mary Robinson, barrister at law, former President of the Republic of Ireland and now with the United Nations organisation, for her commitment and single mindedness to make her own way in what was then a "man's world".

Your favourite place in the NT? Darwin golf course for relaxation.

Community involvement: Providing gratis feng shui seminars and analysis to non profit charitable organisations.

Complete this sentence: I couldn't live without... the support of friends and loved ones.

If you were down to your last $50 what would you buy? Pipe tobacco.

What book are you reading at the moment? I Ching, the book of Chnges.

David Dalrymple is principal of Dalrymple and Associates in Darwin.

Background: Nomadic childhood, much of it in South East Asia. Boarding school. ANU. Stint as an articled clerk in Darwin in 1983. Car accident. Admitted in NSW, worked there for a while then came back to the Territory in 1986. Became a small business person in 1996.

Most memorable case/file? Goodsell v Yunupingu. A case about photography on Aboriginal land. A team effort.

Who are your role models? Alex Harvey during his sensational Alex Harvey Band heyday. Pretty fly for a white guy and an inspiration for those of us in our forties.

Your favourite place in the NT? Jabiru public swimming pool. Nirvana for the zen lap swimmer.

Community involvement: Nothing but empty aspirations at present. I used to spend a bit of time and money helping a few Aboriginal rock bands.

Complete this sentence: I couldn't live without... I was very impressed with Jonathon Hunyor's recent response to this. I think mine would be my wife and a copy of There's a Riot Going On.

If you were down to your last $50 what would you buy? It would depend on whether there was more coming soon.

What book are you reading at the moment? I'm ashamed to admit that reading these days is mostly work stuff, newspapers and occasionally music magazines. I did just read Noel Pearson's thesis about community self help which was fairly in your face and beautifully written.

Tim Smith is a solicitor with Brian L. John's practice in Darwin.

Background: Arrived in Darwin some twenty years ago, liked the place and stayed. Completed school here and worked ten years as an engineering surveyor before commencing and completing a degree in law at NTU. Completed articles in May 2000 with Brian L. Johns.

Most memorable case/file? A local court matter acting for a plaintiff bitten by a dog. It highlighted just how expensive owning a dog could become.

Who are your role models? Definitely my parents, for simply surviving the numerous trials and tribulations associated with raising a family of 13 children, while maintaining an enthusiasm and optimism for life which continues to this date.

Your favourite place in the NT? Dawn beside the Howard River, with a six metre tide and plenty of RID, fishing.

Community involvement: Divided between work and family, time is rarely available for anything else.

Complete this sentence: I couldn't live without... My family and friends, specially my spouse and daughters. I would survive most definitely, but truly live ... I seriously doubt it.

If you were down to your last $50 what would you buy? A cast net, fishing line and tackle, rice and matches.

What book are you reading at the moment? Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban by J.K Rowling.

PEOPLE IN THE LAW

Want to nominate someone for People in the Law? Contact the editor via email: skilvert@lawsocnt.asn.au