Kick off - tipsters go hard

by Lorelei Fong Lim

The tips are in, the competition tough and it's going to be a loooong AFL season for some.

The inaugural Law Society AFL tipping competition is underway and headway is already being made by some.

The fourth round of the season saw Elizabeth Morris from the Office of the Coroner tip a perfect round enabling her to leap ahead of the pack and lead on a score of 52.

Second placers after round four were Lyn Bond (Parliamentary Counsel Office), Melanie Little (St Hilary Chambers) and Jennie Radtke (Justice Dept), all on 46.

Next in line are:

Chris Chaplin (Ward Keller) on 44; Jenny Blokland (Justice Dept), Sean Bowden (Sean Bowden & Associates), Donna Dreier (Cridlands), Mark Johnson (Justice Dept), Peter Walker (Peter Walker), all on 42; Michael Davis (De Silva Hebron), Magistrate Daynor Trig, Cassandra Tys (Cassandra Tys), all on 40.

The rest of the tipsters have some catching up to do but, as they say in the classics (well, they don't actually), the season is still young. ①
