

Friends wish Judy Bonner a very active and happy retirement.

Long term practitioner Judith Bonner, said goodbye to practitioners and colleagues at her retirement function held at the Ski Club on Wednesday 28 April.

Judy first commenced with the then Department of Law in 1990 in the Litigation Division. In 1992 she left to take up a position at Wollongong University as a lecturer in property and public law. She returned to the Territory and what was the NT Attorney-General's Dept in 1994 and headed up the newly established Native Title Unit until 1997. Following a period of leave without pay during which Judy was employed for a short time in the NSW Crown Solicitor's Office, she returned to the Department and took up a position in the Policy Division for two years. She again returned to NSW and took up a position with the NSW Department of Lands. But this was not to be the end of Judy's association with the Territory. She returned in 2005 and the Department managed to keep her this time for another five years. Judy has worked for this Department and its predecessors for a total of 11 years spanning over 20 years.

Judy has made many good friends in the Territory who will miss her both personally, and professionally, for her extensive expertise as a native title lawyer and her significant contribution to the work of the Aboriginal Land Division. ●
