Congratulations to the Chief Justice's XI, who reclaimed bragging rights on Sunday, 17 May 2015 in the annual Law Week cricket match. On the day, the Chief Justice's XI were just too good for the President's XI, which was proudly made up of players from extremely diverse practice areas and included the Katherine contingent (a big shout out to Mr Roy who made the day trip up and back; a really stellar effort).

Our thanks go to Marsh for generously supporting the event, the Waratah Sports Club for the use of the ground and pavilion, Rob Perry for umpiring and Sue Erickson and Klarin Aust for scoring.

All players and supporters enjoyed a fantastic afternoon out in one of the most successful and popular Law Week cricket games yet. A face painter and clown (complete with novelty balloon blowing and clown snot) provided wonderful entertainment for the children, who were also able to enjoy playing kanga cricket on the sidelines and out in the middle during the innings break.

Our special thanks and congratulations go to Rex Wild QC, who was presented with an award in recognition of his commitment to collegiality and the key role he has played over many years in organising events such as the cricket game and the NTBA golf day.

Additionally, the inaugural Rex Wild QC Player of the Match Award, the 'Wild One', was awarded. Silky skills were up on display in spades this year and in a strong field of standout individual performances on both sides, the two team captains decided that the gong should be awarded to Michelle Duggan, whose countless wickets and strong displays with the bat and in the field (in a losing side, no less) set her apart from the rest. Congratulations Michelle.

Thank you to everyone who involved themselves in this event and for helping to close out Law Week 2015 in superb style.
