On Tuesday 8 September 2015 we held a CPD in Alice Springs entitled 'Surviving and succeeding in an adversarial world', presented by Suzan Cox QC.

Suzan provided a number of practical tips on advocacy in the court room, how to deal with judicial bullying and bullying from male colleagues. Suzan also highlighted the importance of female practitioners continuing to work in the profession, noted some of the hurdles she had faced over the years, including during her time living and working in Papua New Guinea, and reminded us all about the significance of self-care. Suzan is an amazing speaker with a wealth of knowledge; the issues she addressed are close to the heart of many of our members and attendees.

We were fortunate to have such an experienced and interesting person share her stories, adventures and knowledge with us.
