OPEN DAY AT MACQUARIE

ACQUARIE UNIVERSITY will hold its second Information Day on Saturday, 9 August.

▲ ↓ day, 9 August. The Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Academic) and the chairman of the Information Day Committee, Emeritus Professor Bruce Mansfield, said that applicants for tertiary education were often ignorant of what Macquarie University had to offer.

'It will be a day when prospective students can come to the University and talk with academic staff about courses, careers and their future' he said.

Information Day will also be an opportunity for the public to learn about the latest developments at the University and how they and the community can benefit from the University.

For more information about the Day contact Toni Quigley (02) 88 9598.

Beware of Greeks bearing gifts. . .

PIERRE RAY'S novel The Greek, allegedly based on the career of Aristotle Onassis, was purchased in its Greek translation by Moonee Valley Regional Library.

This, along with a few hundred other Greek books, was imported through their Athenian agent and despatched to Technilib for cataloguing in accordance with normal library routines.

When opened at Technilib, it was discovered that along with the text were a large number of choice Penthouse-quality coloured illustrations surreptitiously bound at random into the volume. The ladies and their captions bore no relation at all to the book!

The bemused library staff are not sure if it is their belated Christmas present from a grateful publisher or a new way to beat the censor.
