Looking ahead and assessing skills

A REPORT ENTITLED Towards The Year 2000 has been prepared as a voluntary activity by the National Library's Innovative Technology Group, a body which brings together several members of the Library's staff who have a particular interest in technological development.

The report suggests how the National Library could be affected by possible future changes in the methods by which information could be stored, retrieved and disseminated. The aim of the Innovative Technology Group in preparing the report was to stimulate discussion among members of the Council of the National Library and among the Library's staff, which would assist the Library in planning its future.

The Council has not adopted the report, which remains the expression of the individual opinions of a group of members of staff. However, because of the understandable interest of the Australian library community, not only in the general topic of technological change but also in the possible effect of such changes on the National Library, the Council has agreed that an edited version of the report be made available.

Copies of Towards The Year 2000 ISBN 0 642 99276 2, $3.95 may be ordered from Sales and Subscriptions Unit, National Library of Australia, CANBERRA ACT 2600. Telephone: (062) 62 1646.

A GROUP of teacher-librarians in the Liverpool Region, calling themselves the Liverpool Desperados, have pooled their expertise to produce a booklet containing lists of skills which teacher librarians are trying to develop in their students. Designed for the abilities of the 'average' student, the booklet presents lists, for classes K to 6, of information location skills which children might be expected to have mastered at the end of each grade.

The authors regard this booklet as a first draft and invite constructive comment from other teacher-librarians. To obtain copies of the booklet contact Jo Shintah, Library Consultant for the Liverpool Region, Multi Media Centre, C/- Villawood East Primary School, Lowana Street, Villawood 2163.
