

Working for libraries

Sue Hutley completed the Graduate Diploma of Library Science from the Queensland University of Technology in 1991. After two years at the Southbank Institute of TAFE she moved into special libraries and is now the librarian at the Queensland Audit Office, a one-person library.

In 1994 Sue completed a Graduate Certificate of Business, the first step on the long road towards an MBA, and at the age of 24 she was the youngest member of the first Aurora Leadership Institute run by AIMA in November 1995. She describes Aurora as a truly wonderful experience, a time for inward reflection. Sue was sponsored by ALIA to attend Aurora. Sue is currently the President of the Queensland Library Promotion Council. The last remaining independent Library Promotion Council undertakes a range of activities for Australian Library Week, including Australian Library Week forum and the public launch of ALW in Queensland, which will be held in Townsville in 1996. Australian Library Week is certainly one of Sue's passions. 'This is our week to celebrate. We should all make the most of it! It's a great time to get out there and remind everyone in Australia about the wonderful services that libraries can offer, and the expert staff that can assist them!', she says.

Another hat Sue wears is that of the continuing education officer for the ALIA Special Libraries Section (Queensland group) and this keeps her networking with her special colleagues. Sue also likes to keep in touch with the current students of the library science courses run by Queensland universities. 'I think it's important to try and get library students involved in the profession early so that they get to know working librarians and to find out what the real world is like'.
