Antarctic journeys exhibition

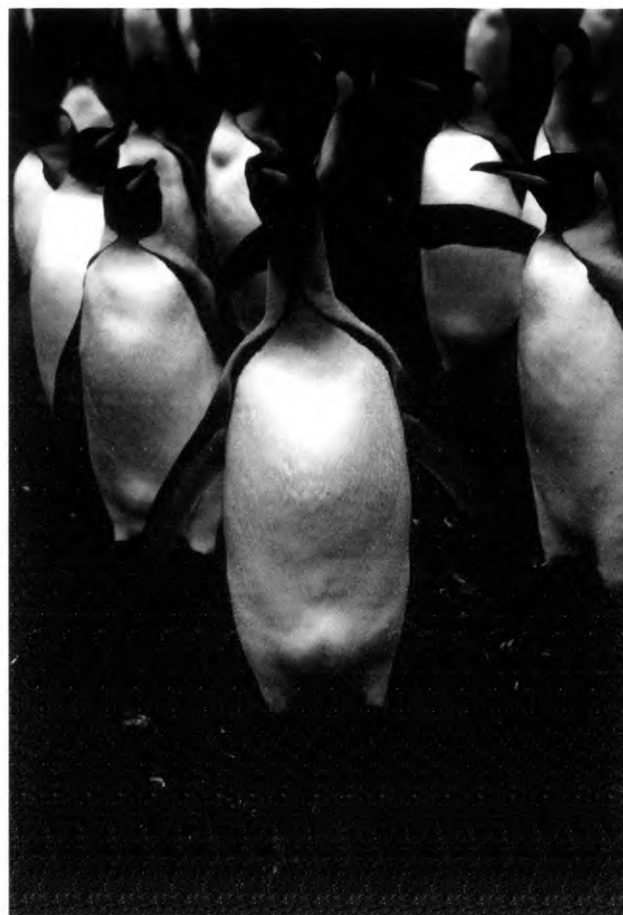

A new exhibition of rarely-seen material from the vast collections of the State Library of New South Wales, will be on show in the Mitchell Galleries from 2 September.

Through original manuscripts and diaries, maps, watercolours and telegraphs, the exhibition will tell the story of early explorers and settlement in Antarctica. Original photographs by David Moore and Frank Hurley will also be included in the show.

Historic expeditions to Antarctica will be highlighted to give an insight into what explorers experienced when they arrived on the isolated continent, how they recorded their expeditions and how they shared their experiences.

Of national importance is Captain Cook's voyage in the late 18th century on which he wrote to James Walker describing how he had disproven the concept of a great southern continent.

Stephen Martin

diaries of Mawson's Australasian Antarctic Expedition will be displayed along with photographs and diaries of the Australian establishment of Mawson base, the first permanent base to be set up in east Antarctica. Diaries of Robert Falcon Scott's sledging journey through southern Antarctica will provide an account of his experiences on the first inland Antarctic trip. Photographs, diaries, work books and artefacts brought back by Estelle Lazer, the first woman archaeologist to work in Antarctica (Heard Island), will also be on show.

The rare materials used in this show are unique Antarctic treasures from the State Library's collection. The exhibition will be on display until 24 November 1996 and admission is free.

Monster book sale

Beatriz Aroche

The Sydney Institute of Technology library at Ultimo will be holding a monster book fair on Friday 13 September from 9:00am to 8:30pm and Saturday 14 September from 9:30am to 4:30pm at the ground floor of the library, building D, Mary Ann Street, Ultimo.

The Sydney Institute of Technology Ultimo library, previously Sydney Technical College, is the oldest TAFE library in Australia. Specialist technical books and thousands of more recent publications that cover the wide range of subjects taught in TAFE will be on sale. A large number of these are surplus items from the closure of the Sydney Institute of Technology Dover Heights campus in December last year.

Books are priced from 50 cents to $5.00 and proceeds from the sale will be used to improve current library services through the provision of additional technology and resources.
