Warren Horton receives National Book Council Gold Medal

Warren Horton, Director General of the National Library of Australia was awarded the National Book Council's Gold Medal on 26 October 1996 at a luncheon held at the National Library. Over 110 guests attended the luncheon, which was held to coincide with the announcement and presentation of the inaugural National Award for Biography to Abraham H Biderman (for his autobiography The world of my past). The Medal was presented by Michael Fraser, chairman of the National Book Council.

The National Book Council Gold Medal was established during the 1970s to recognise those individuals distinguished in the book trade. In its new form it seeks to recognise individuals and organisations contributing in an outstanding manner to the Council or to the promotion of books and writing in Australia. The Gold Medal acknowledges Warren's 'gifts of invaluable experience and skills enthusiastically given to libraries and librarianship in Australia and to the cultural life of the country and in grateful acknowledgment of his support of the National Book Council and its activities. A contribution of singular significance to the world of books'.
