

Knowing how

On the Edge, 7th Asian Pacific Specials, Health and Law Librarians' Conference, Perth, 12-16 October 1997

Sylvia Webb will be speaking at the conference on 'know-how' and knowing how: the changing context of information and the role of the professional. Sylvia has a background in special libraries in the United Kingdom and is now a private consultant and lecturer, currently working in law firm libraries. Readers may remember her lecture tour of Australia in 1987, sponsored by ALIA Special Libraries Section, when she presented seminars on management and promotion of libraries and information services as well as presentation skills and continuing professional development.

Sylvia's consultancies include training and research in both the information and management skills areas. She has set up and developed information services for several large organisations, and before that worked at Ashridge Management College as both College librarian and a lecturer. She is active in the united Kingdom professional associations and was awarded a Fellowship of the Library Association in 1987.

Sylvia's first book, Creating an information service, published by ASLIB, is now in its third edition. She has published several other books, as well as research reports and articles. Other activities include chair of the Information and Library Services Lead Body for National Vocational Qualifications, past-chair of the Accreditation Board of the Library Association, and former vice-president of the Institute of Information Scientists.

Nominations invited

The National Library of Australia is now inviting entries for the 1997 TDK Australian Audio Book Awards.

The Awards are administered by the National Library and sponsored by TDK (Australia). They are the only independent awards for audio books in Australia and are open to both commercial and non-commercial publishers.

Awards are offered for abridged and unabridged fiction and non-fiction. The judges also have a discretion to make a special award for an outstanding entry aimed at a younger market. The Trish Trinick Prize for the best narrator will be selected from among entrants for the Audio Book Awards.

Entries close on 2 June and are assessed by a panel of three judges. The judging criteria encompasses the quality of narration, sound quality; quality of editing and preparation of text for audio; quality of packaging; and quality of announcements.
