

NOMINALLY YOURS

We don't need to tell you the importance of continuing education. We talk about it in every issue of INCITE. If you're in the health sector, school or public libraries, you've also probably heard about the work ALIA has been doing to ensure the specialist skills and knowledge in those sectors are recognised through ALIA's Professional Development Scheme specialisations and Certified Professional status.

If you are a current financial professional Member, you can also use your ALIA post nominals to differentiate yourself from the pack when seeking employment or promotion. You've earned them, why not let them work for you? ALIA encourages every Member to advocate for yourselves, and your professional association, by using your ALIA post nominals in resumes and job applications.

INCITE is now also adding ALIA post nominals for contributing authors. (Please advise the editor by email when submitting content if you do not wish us to include them.)

AALIA Associate

Members in this category must hold an ALIA-accredited library and information science qualification at undergraduate or post graduate levels.

AALIA (CP) Associate Certified Professional

Members in this category must hold current Associate membership and maintain compliance with the ALIA Professional Development Scheme. You may use the post nominal letters AALIA (CP) after 12 months compliance.

FALIA Fellow of the Australian Library and Information Association

Fellows of the Association are nominated by their peers for consideration for this honour. For more information visit the ALIA website.

ALIAtec Library Technician

Members in this category must hold an ALIA-accredited library technician qualification.

ALIAtec (CP) Library Technician Certified Professional

Members in this category must hold Library Technician membership and maintain compliance with the ALIA Professional Development Scheme and you are entitled to use these post nominals after 12 months compliance.

AALIA (DCP) or ALIAtec (DCP)

Distinguished Certified Professional

This status is available to Certified Professional ALIA PD Scheme participants that have shown ongoing commitment to professional development through membership of the scheme for at least five years, and who satisfy referee-supported additional requirements. See the ALIA website for more information.

(Please note you must be a current financial Member of ALIA in order to be able to use the post nominal letters.)
